

Paul Revere's famous ride, "The Midnight Run," took place on this day in 1775. He was not the only rider during this event. Imagine you were with Revere. Write about the evening when you rode through the dark, warning everyone about the British forces coming, and the bravery you showed during this important event in history.